STRONG ATTACKS ON FRANCO-BRITISH FRONT

By Associated Press.
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, April 24.—The shell torn village of Saicheprey, around which centered the fiercest fighting in connection with the recent heavy German attack on the American positions, appears to be destined to hold a proud place in the story of American participation in the world war.

The correspondent is now permitted to tell of a few cases of individual heroism which will convey an idea as to the metal of the men. One of them, David Griggs, of East Hampton, Conn., passed through the enemy barrage at least seven times to carry ammunition to his hard-pressed comrades.

Griggs, who is 19 years old, was so modest that he would not tell his story, but insisted on speaking of the bravery of others. Finally one of his comrades pointed him out and said: "That is the bravest man in the regiment."

Raymond A. Ferris of Medford, Mass., acting as a courier, was blown off the road twice by the concussion of shells. Although stunned and nearly crazed by the intensity of the gunfire when he reached the point in the rear of the line to which he was sent for ammunition he carried out his orders. Then he asked for a revolver, saying he wanted to go out and fight the Germans, but he fainted from exhaustion. When he regained consciousness his first words were an inquiry whether his message had been delivered.

Charles Sinkler, a Philadelphia lawyer, who is now with the Red Cross and was in the thick of the fighting, told the correspondent today of two Americans who, armed only with automatic pistols, charged an enemy machine gun, killed eight Germans and captured the gun.

It was reported that one American sharpshooter killed 15 Germans.

GERMANS BOMBARD BRITISH ON NORTH FRONT.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 24.—The Germans began a heavy bombardment of the British positions in the Somme sector this morning and the latest reports state that an infantry attack is in progress.

A German bombardment of the British positions on both sides of the river Lave on the northern battle front was begun at 4 o'clock this morning. A large section of this battle front is seething, although the definite dimensions of the infantry action are not yet known.

Northwest of Albert early today enemy troops which advanced from their trenches for an assault were driven back by the British fire. Northwest of Meville a large concentration of German soldiers was dispersed by the British fire.

REPORTED RAID ON PARIS DOES NOT MATERIALIZE.

PARIS, April 24.—Aeroplane having been heard coming toward Paris in air raid warning was given shortly before midnight last night, but no planes reached the Paris district, according to an official statement issued today.

JAPANESE FOREIGN MINISTER RESIGNS.

LONDON, April 24.—Viscount Motono, Japanese minister for foreign affairs, has resigned, according to a teletype dispatch from Tokyo.

The question of Japanese intervention in Siberia probably led to the withdrawal of Viscount Motono from the foreign ministry, of which he has been the head since November, 1916, when Count Terauchi formed the present cabinet. There have been reports recently that Viscount Motono might resign in connection with the Siberian situation, but explanation of such a possibility was scanty.

GERMANS OPEN HEAVY ARTILLERY BOMBARDMENT.

PARIS, April 24.—The German artillery has been conducting an extremely heavy bombardment of the Franco-British front between the Somme and Aves in region of Hamard-Santerre and Villers-Bretonneux, the war office reports today.

FRENCH REPULSE ATTACK ON FLANDERS FRONT.

LONDON, April 24.—Strong German attacks developed last evening in the neighborhood of Dranoutre on the Flanders front but were repulsed by French troops, the war office announced.

Heavy infantry attacks are reported to be in progress this morning in the Albert sector, north of the Somme and also between the Somme and the Ypres rivers.

The French and British artillery inflicted severe losses on the Germans in the Flanders attack. On the front northwest of Albert a German attack early yesterday evening was repulsed.

WRECK OF THE MOLE COMPLETE, SAILORS SAY.

LONDON, April 24.—Not only was the mouth of the canal at Zebrugghe blocked but British sailors and marines who participated in the raid on the German submarine bases, believe that they destroyed every gun on the Mole, demolished the sheds throughout

TELLS THRILLING STORY OF RAID ON SUBMARINE BASES

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 24.—A young marine who took part in the raiding on the Mole at Zebrugghe, described his experience in a Central News correspondent at a Kewstah port as follows: "We certainly had a hot time. I shall never forget it. It was all pitch dark until we shot right into the harbor and then the place suddenly became alight with star shells and the fun started. Looming ahead of us was a German destroyer, evidently getting under way. We put on full speed ahead and rammed her amidships, cutting her in halves. As she sank we swam alongside the Mole quickly put our gangways and rushed out the Mole.

"The first thing my party encountered was a big German, who came out of the semi-darkness and lunged at our nearest man. Before he could get in a blow our captain knocked him on the head with his truncheon and he sank down dead.

"Next we saw another destroyer tied up on the other side of the Mole. We knocked on the head all who attempted to oppose our progress. Then came an order to charge along the Mole. We rushed ahead, baying on or shooting all we came across.

"By this time we were fairly mad and in high glee. The noise of the firing mingling with the shouts and cries of men was terrifying. It was a slaughter."

The marine said that when the order came to return to the ships they retraced their steps along the Mole, which was littered with the dead and dying, and re-embarked safely.

LIFE IN GERMANY MUCH LIKE BEING CONFINED IN CAGE

That is Way Speaker at B. & O. Veterans' Banquet Describes It.

MAYOR ROASTS THE HUNS

Duggan Hopes Boys Will March Into Berlin Playing "Yankee Doodle" and Predicts German Will Be Official Language of Hell for Next 600 Years

"When I was in Germany it was like being an animal in a cage," said George W. Sturmer, supervisor of locomotives and train supplies of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad company, with headquarters at Baltimore, when addressing the guests at the Baltimore & Ohio veterans banquet held last night in the Maccafee hall. "It is the same there today with a master who claims that God is with him. But God has forgotten him and he is so far in the grasp of the Devil that he never will get away."

"I went to that country," continued the speaker, "to learn a language that I despise worse than a rattlesnake. All I want to hear in that language is 'rats mit ten.' If you've got an extra dollar realize that it will kill 20 Beches and send the boys over there $50 in a government bond."

Mr. Sturmer recalled seeing 22 prisoners of war, formerly U-boat men of Germany, who are being taken to Georgia. "These prisoners will have to build roads," he said, "and after the war is over and everything is prospering again we'll get an automobile and ride over those roads. When we think then of those built then it will give us pleasure to ride all over the Dutch."

Every man who addressed the veterans and their families during the evening referred to the Liberty Loan drive and urged the buying of bonds. All the selections by the Baltimore & Ohio band were military airs.

Mayor John Duggan made the first address on the program. He complimented the members of the veterans' committee on the success of its banquet and reminded them that he was once a railroad hand himself. Mayor Duggan dropped into the universal subject, the war, and urged the buying of Liberty Bonds, pointing out the necessity for them if the boys over there are to be kept supplied. "I expect those boys to march into Berlin to the tune of 'Yankee Doodle' and win this war so decisively that 'Hun' will be the official language of Hell for the next 600 years."

Musical selections were given by a mixed quartet led by E. W. Haviland. Miss Winnie Harrigan, Mrs. Rosa F. Lytle and Ray McClintock contributed vocal solos that were received with applause.

The Baltimore & Ohio band, of the Connellsville division, claimed by Superintendent Broughton as "my band," was one of the big features of the evening. The band is made up exclusively of railroad employees who have accredited themselves so well that Superintendent Broughton is going to furnish uniforms.

An exercise by 10 boys was cleverly given, and little Harry Schenck scored when he gave a monologue over a telephone. Superintendent Broughton, Inspector J. S. Darr and C. M. Stone gave short addresses. Misses Brennan and Lindsay gave readings and Foreman Thomas Stewart spoke a few minutes. P. J. Harrigan, president of the veterans' association, closed the program with a talk on the association and railroad conditions as they are today and were many years ago.

ENGINEER ARRESTED

Charles M. Vance Taken From Engine and Lodged in Jail for Contempt.

Engineer Charles M. Vance of Connellsville, who was yesterday declared to be in contempt of court for failure to pay his wife alimony and counsel fees pending the disposition of her suit for divorce, was arrested this morning at the Baltimore & Ohio station as his train, No. 7, the Interstate Limited, pulled in, by Deputy Sheriff Owen Meegan, and taken to Uniontown.

Duggan had notified the railroad officials that he intended to arrest Vance and suggested that a substitute be on hand. The substitute was there and the train was not delayed. Vance was taken in his home and allowed to change his clothes and then removed to jail.

RUBS GASOLINE TO STOP STOMACH PAIN; LANDS IN HOSPITAL

Italian is Painfully Burned About Abdomen When the Staff Calches Fire From Stove.

Nicola Porro, 45 years old, of Dunbar, was severely burned this morning when gasoline which he had applied to his stomach to stop a pain took fire from a stove. The Italian was at the Boarding House on Water street, where he had been staying for the past week. He became ill and it seems that some one told him to apply gasoline to his stomach to stop the pain. After he had applied the stuff he went to a stove to heat a handkerchief to place over the saturated skin. The heat caused the gasoline to catch fire and he suffered severe burns. He was also burned on the face and hands.

The flames were extinguished and a physician called. Porro was taken to the Cottage State hospital.

CALLS WORKERS GRAFTERS

As Result Western Maryland Brakeman is Arrested and Fined.

William Gardner, Western Maryland passenger brakeman, of Dickerson Run, was taken to Uniontown by Deputy Sheriff C. L. Cramer, Monday morning, and was given a hearing charged with disorderly conduct. He had been making remarks that were a cordial invitation to Connellsville war with Germany. Also making remarks about certain Red Cross workers of that community, calling them a set of grafters.

Gardner was fined $10 and costs, which amounted to $26, but the justice remitted the fine and the witnesses agreed not to ask any costs and expenses if he would agree to buy a Liberty Bond, some Thrift Stamps and also apologize to a certain Red Cross worker of Dawson. He agreed.

With only meagre reports coming from the outside districts indications are that the workers are still plugging away for bonds. One worker today turned in $100 secured in Jones Mills. Some other district have made little returns but they have not been computed by the stamped bank clerks. At the First National bank Robert Norris has been busy night and day getting the subscriptions in a race.

The race between Connellsville and Uniontown to reach the quota first and thereby secure a Liberty Flag is becoming more interesting each day of the campaign. The organized work here has been much to place this city in the lead. Even after the canvassing committees have completed their work on Friday the Boy Scouts will cover the city systematically. The scouts will not rest until the big total secured by them last year but they expect to pick up many loose bonds. Every troop in the city will be engaged in this work and after the canvassers, followed by the scouts, have finished their work, there is no doubt but what every section of the city will have been touched.

Dunbar has gone "over the top" and secured its quota. Reports indicate that $11,000 have been subscribed on time that brought in a place on the honor roll.

There was much discussion in the city this week as to whether Connellsville would participate in the Liberty Day celebration on Friday. Nothing had been done today.

The following women of the Christian church served dinner today to the captains and their wives: General chairman, Mrs. James B. Hodge, dining room committee, Mrs. Josephine Reid, Mrs. D. D. CAPTAIN STAYTON

WILL BOOST NAVY AT RALLY TONIGHT

Ministerial Association Backing Movement Fostered by the Edwin S. Porter Navy League Branch.

High school students, their parents, and all relatives of men in the army and navy are invited to hear the address of Captain William H. Stayton, at the high school auditorium tonight at 8:15 o'clock. This hour has been decided upon instead of 8:30.

Captain Stayton, a graduate of the naval academy at Annapolis and for many years an officer in the United States navy, brings a message to the people of Conneltsville—a message filled with official facts about the war situation, and a plea to Americans to get solidly behind the administration and help win the war quickly and at the smallest possible cost.

The meeting tonight, which is under the auspices of the Navy League, is one of the large meetings held in Western Pennsylvania, and Captain Stayton comes to Conneltsville because of the splendid work of this branch of the league.

Captain Stayton will impress on his audience the fact that the army is absolutely dependent upon the shipping board and navy. The shipping board must build ships faster or the army will not be properly equipped, and supplied with the necessary ammunition. The navy must convey safely to France the millions of soldiers and millions of tons of supplies necessary before victory can come.

Thus, the army is dependent upon both the shipping board and the navy, and both should have the fullest confidence and backing of the people as a whole.

In reply to the telegram sent by Mr. Smith yesterday Captain Stayton stated that he would have the slides and endeavor to secure the films showing scenes in navy life and the various kinds of ships now in service in the war zone.

The Conneltsville Ministerial Association is backing Captain Stayton's address and the movement to gain cooperation of the people of this district in the war work by shortening the prayer meeting services this evening so that all may have the opportunity to hear the lecture. From all indications, there will be a record attendance at the auditorium tonight.

The high school chorus led by E. W. Hasland, will open the meeting with "America" and other patriotic songs. A pleasant feature of the evening will be the appearance of Miss Mary M. McConnell, soprano soloist, who will sing "Liberty Bell," with Miss Pearl Keck accompanying. There will be no admission charge and no collection will be taken.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not irritate calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Bringing Iron to the Front

It is a well-known fact that men of courage, men with brawn and nerve to "back the line" and go over-the-top have rich, red blood coursing through their veins. This blood must contain about as much iron as there is in a common penny nail. The red blood corpuscles must be fed on iron to have that rich red color. The nerves are fed on the red blood corpuscles, so when you feel tired, worn out before the day is half over, when pimples show on neck or face, it's the danger signal, time to repair the blood-cells. It is fortunate that Dr. Pierce and his staff of able physicians at the Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., have found a combination of iron and herbal extracts that gives the stomach tone, fortifies the blood with iron in a form that it can be taken into the system. You need energy and "pep" every day. You can acquire it quickly by taking "Iron-Tonic." This latest discovery called "Iron-Tonic" can be had at most drug stores, in tablet form, at sixty cents the six.

Why I Believe In Nuxated Iron

Is a Tonic, Strength and Blood Builder.

Probably no remedy has ever met with such phenomenal success as this Nuxated Iron. It is conservative, established, and over the million people usually are taking it in this country.
It has been highly endorsed and used by Former United States Senators and Members of Congress.
Physicians who have been connected with well known hospitals have prescribed and recommended it. Many near Vienna, a prominent Chicago recommends it to all. Former Health Commissioner Wm. P. Kerr of Chicago has said it ought to be used in every household and prescribed by every physician.

Dr. A. J. Newman, late Police Surgeon of the City of Chicago, and former House Surgeon Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago, says Nuxated Iron has proven through his own tests of it to be the best preparation he has ever used for creating red blood, building up the nerve, strengthening the muscles and correcting digestive disorders.

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.) New York, and of the Westchester County Hospital, says
there are thousands of men and women who need a strength and blood builder but do not know what to take. In his opinion there is nothing better than Nuxated Iron—Nuxated Iron—for enriching the blood and helping to increase the strength and endurance of men and women who burn up too rapidly their nervous energy in the strenuous strain of the great business competition of the day.

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the full test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron which has been used by former Members of the United States Senate and House of Representatives and other prominent people with such surprising results and which physicians is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older iron-tonic products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth. It makes them black nor upset the stomach.
The manufacturers guarantee success and entice you with satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by A. A.
Chase and all good druggists.—Ad.

Columbia Grafonolas & Records At the Front

"They were nervous and restless"

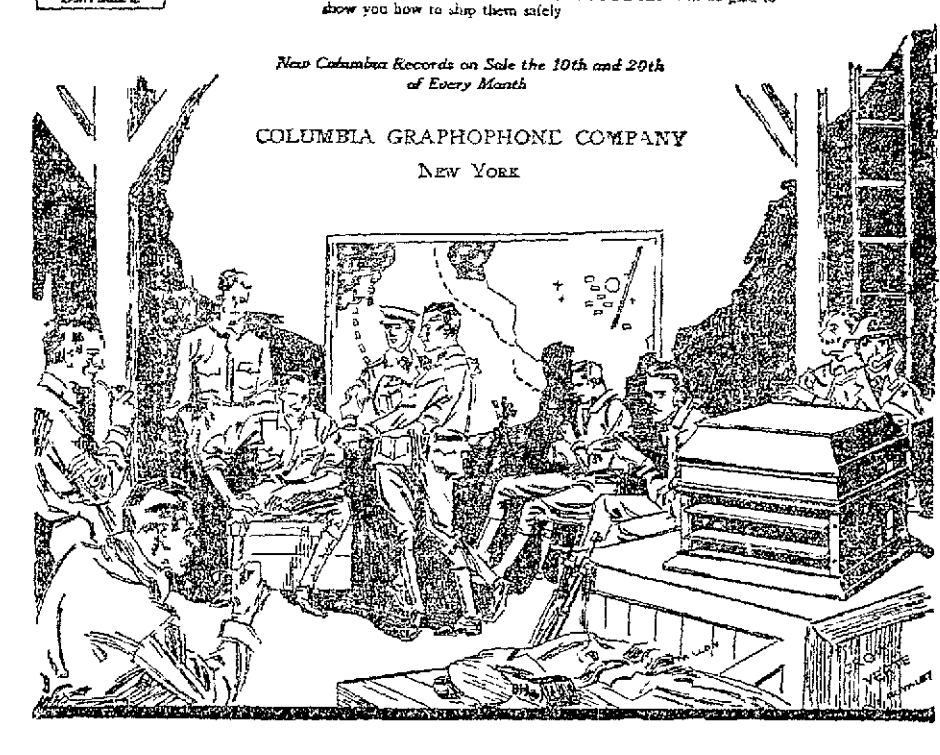

—huddled in the daunt' waiting for the gray dawn that was to send them on the top. I would wind the Grafonola slip or the record of the 'Humoresque'
—and as the soft, sweet haunting strains floated out, I'd watch the grim face relax and the ten mood pass.

'Again—in a shattered Belgian village—a group of American lads—truck driver going up to the front—would be caught and held by a tornado of shellfire. There was nothing to keep them occupied, to leave the hut was certain death—we'd play blind music on the Columbia, lively selections that would take their minds off of the whine and screech of shells outside.

'We had 120 Columbia Grafonolas in our 'farthest up' huts. Over 300 Grafonolas and 5,000 records were in use in the Canadian area alone. They were an important part of our equipment.'

These extracts from a letter from Captain H. A. Pearson, Senior Officer Y. M. C. A., with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in France, point vividly this part played by the Columbia Grafonola in the grim events 'over there'.
Captain Pearson, who was invalided last June, after being severely wounded when his hut was destroyed by shellfire, writes, "Gave your soldier tobacco, gave him music."

herein.PUT THE IDLES AT WORK.

Pennsylvanians are proud of the record the Keystone state has made in more than meeting its full quota of soldiers for every war in which our nation has been engaged. Today we are no less proud of what our people have done in providing funds for the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus and other war activities and the subscriptions to the three Liberty Bond issues. Much as there is cause for just pride in the things we have done toward helping to win the war, there remains a condition that must be corrected, otherwise humiliation and shame will overtake us.

In every community there is a number of men who remain idle from idleness, notwithstanding the repeated calls that are being made for help in every quarter and in every line of activity. Others are lazy and shiftless and willing to live on the earnings of a day's work now and then or to depend upon other members of their families to provide them with subsistence and clothing. Still others gain a livelihood by preying upon the sins, weaknesses or habits of others. These idlers, be they rich or poor, are a curse to our country. That they cannot be reached by any of our laws except those providing penalties for vagrancy, is the lamentable condition which confronts us and which, if not remedied, will make it impossible for Pennsylvania to do all that it can or is expected of it in this great crisis in our nation's life.

Congress was fully justified in the adoption of the Selective Service Law under which every man, entirely without regard to his station in life must, if physically qualified, enter the National Army and consecrate his life to the holy and righteous cause in which our nation is engaged. But there remain behind thousands, yes millions, of men wasting their strength and time and consuming the food that should be conserved for the starving in Europe, instead of engaging in any form of productive effort which is so essential to the nation's existence as the service of the soldiers.

The strong, willing and able of our young manhood have been chosen for military service. The sacrifices of these men in money and hardship and heartaches and even life itself can never be measured nor computed. Against all that they may do, suffer and lose, what have the indolent and cowardly to show for what they have done, suffered or lost?

Shall we be recreant to our responsibilities to our soldiers by refusing to demand that something be done to compel the slackers to go to work?

If a nation, in time of grave peril, such as has come upon us, were too cowardly to defend itself, it would deserve to die. Are we any more deserving to be saved if we lack the courage to force our loafers into useful occupations that our nation may have the strength to win in the mighty conflict in which we are engaged? Unless the people make demand that something be done to counteract the grave injustice being done our soldiers abroad and the faithful and loyal workers who are toiling diligently at home, the government at Washington, or the individual states, cannot be expected to act.

Early in the war the legislature of the state of West Virginia, in answer to a demand of the people, passed a law requiring every able-bodied man to work a certain number of hours per week. Somewhat later Maryland and still later New Jersey enacted similar laws. What these states have done should be done on a more thorough and drastic plan not alone by Pennsylvania and every other state in the Union, but by the Congress itself, as it is only through national legislation that the full man-power of the country, not in the military service, can be developed.

It is the belief in all well-posted quarters that there is enough labor in this country if employed with the regularity of the soldiers' work, to produce all the foodstuffs, to build all the ships, to mine all the coal, to make all the coke, iron, steel, munitions and supplies needed for the winning of the war.

As a nation we were ready to meet the issue of war and make soldiers of men who had never carried a gun. Are we, as a nation, equally ready to meet the issues of non-employment and make men of the idlers who never carried a gun, or wielded any other implement of honest industry?

ARE YOU A V. C. Man?

A V. C. is a pretty big thing. It means that valor has dominated over danger, fear, pain, selfishness—all of those things which are supposed to have so much power over human beings.

A man who wears a V. C. deserves to be marked out among his fellow-men for homage. Victoria Cross, the letters mean one of Britain's highest medals.

There is another kind of V. C. that one doesn't wear. But it means something big—just the same, you are assured by the Liberty Loan committee. The glory of it goes to the man who gives it, not to the one who receives. And it means that in the man who gives it, patriotism, love of humanity, the will to sacrifice, have dominated over selfishness, fear of inconvenience and all of those things which hold back the human race.

It means that the man who gives it has counted his resources and his needs, and then pared down the demands of those needs, gone without things that he usually thought essential, put the lives of his fellow-men ahead of his own comfort, put future liberty ahead of today's ease, and BOUGHT A LIBERTY BOND JUST TWICE AS BIG AS HE HAD INTENDED TO BUY.

For this V. C. means Victory Check. If you can't wear a V. C. won't you give one? You've won an honor either way.

The British Navy has out-Hobsoned Hobson in the business of corking up the submarine outfit of the Hun.

The Liberty Bond boosters have not been pussy-footing on the job. They have merely been getting ready to make a move with big figures.

Eat still more snuds.

When registrants boldly assert that they would rather be shot than go into the Army, well, it is time for the "curse" to be taken out of the wheels of the department of justice, which insists upon handing offenders against the government, instead of turning them over to the military authorities.

The B. & O. veterans proved again last night that they are old only in years, not heart or spirit.

HOME CHORES.

Of course you'll list to every yawn that speaks of sleep and battle, but don't forget to paint the barn and feed the hogs and cattle. Anon you'll pause to criticize the latest war maneuver, but don't forget to swat the flies and mend the rules of Hoover. We mustn't overlook the chores that keep the pulley turning, because distant cannon roars, and battlefields are burning. With me you will in gladness jump when Prussian strength seems deadening, but don't forget to prime the pump and carry in some kindling. We have to keep things moving on in times of stress and panic just as they moved before the dawn of warfare most titanic. Our sacred highways we betray if we stand idly yawning, instead of doing our share in the great work of the future. Oh, come, let's plant our Burbank peas, and hoe the fragrant lettuce, then talk of going across the seas and gain that they will not us. Come, let us prune the hardy squash, remove the weeds and boulders, then wade around in more knowledge, up to our waists in shoulders. We have to feed the allied hosts, and stop Bill's submarining, so let us quit the hitching post on which we have been leaning.

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

THE GERMAN SNEER.

Let's analyze the German sneer. They say we worship money here—They, that have slaughtered babies at sea. And filled their prints with blasphemous, Have murdered women for a jest. Snelled havens where the wounded lie. And left on walls that once were clean The record of their minds obscene. Piling out upon the air this sneer: We worship gold and silver here. They say it! They whose hands are red With blood in hate and fury shed; They who have striven along their trail Young women, wrecked and wan and pale.

Robbed them of youth and beauty fair And left them mutilated there? They who have scarred the present time Forever with the stamp of crime Proclaim with brazen tongues and bold. That we are men who worship gold.

Thank God, we do not worship might! We are not shodded in the fight! Thank God, we do not wish to rule. So much, that little ones in school Are made our prey, and slaughtered there.

To fortify the crown we wear! Sneer through your brief and drunken days. Better your sneering than your praise! We worship gold! If so we do The ring within our coin is true.

Trace back our dollar to its source. There is no blood along its course. It was not minted out of lust. No woman's breast has felt the thrust of saucer to sustain its worth. No babe was slaughtered in its birth. But out of freedom it was born The die of justice it has worn. Thank God, it is a coin of grace Connaired by any tyrant's face!

NO TIME FOR IDLE WEAPONS.

By Melville Davidson Post.
Civilization and every Christian ideal is weakened by a barbarian advance unequalled in the history of the world. France, England and Italy are in the vanguard of a super-human resistance.

All the resources of America must be massed behind this immortal line, extending from the Gulf of Venice in an arc of blood to the sea.

Every dollar is a weapon. An idle dollar is an idle weapon.

Lend your idle weapons to your country.

Join Our Liberty Loan Bond Club

It's the easiest and simplest way to get on the home firing line—to strike a body blow at the Kaiser.

Under the LIBERTY LOAN BOND CLUB plan anybody can buy a $50 bond by paying a dollar down and a dollar a week until the bond is paid for.

$100, $200, $300, $500 worth of bonds may be paid for in similar proportionate installments.

These bonds are the safest investment in the world today. All the resources of the U. S. Government are back of them.

Don't let anything keep you away from this double opportunity.

An opportunity for safe and profitable investment. An opportunity to help win the war.

THEY OFFER THEIR LIVES FOR YOU

Your sons and your neighbors' sons, perhaps, are now fighting in France or will be "over there" very soon. They offer their lives for us.

Can we do less than offer our money to supply them with food, guns and ammunition?

No; it is our plain duty to buy as many Liberty Bonds as we possibly can. It is the least that we can do for the brave boys at the front.

And there is really no sacrifice connected with it, for every bond is as good as gold—better than gold—for the bonds pay 4-1-4 per cent interest.

Come in today and join the Liberty Bond Club.

NEWS OF THE DAY AT MT. PLEASANT BRIEFLY RELATED

Liberty Bond Sales Have Reached Grand Total Here of $144,600.

TOWN'S QUOTA IS $205,450

Man Charged With Evading Draft Is Arrested and Taken to Camp Lee in Custody of Officer; Town Will Turn Out Sunday to See Drafts Off.

Special to The Courier.

MT. PLEASANT, April 24.—Mt. Pleasant has sold $144,600 worth of Liberty Bonds in the Third Liberty Loan drive. Chairman Sam Warden has announced that he thinks without any question the town will go over the top. The amount set for Mt. Pleasant is $205,450.

Standard Comes Strong.

James S. Mack, superintendent of the Standard works of the H. C. Frick works, and also of the Mount Pleasant Water company, has announced that every employee of the water company has proven 100 per cent patriotic, as all own bonds from this issue and that the amount subscribed from the Standard has totaled $53,000.

Evader Taken to Camp.

Constable Gus Hoffmann left last evening for Camp Lee with Steve Polash, a Russian from Southwest, classed as a deserter since he refused to return his questionnaire to the local army board. Polash was very loud in talking about not returning his questionnaire.

New List Formed.

Mrs. S. C. Stevenson, chairman of the Red Cross committee, has organized a unit at the Church of God. Mrs. George W. Stoner was made chairman and Mrs. S. Fulmer, secretary.

Sounded Very Human.

Constable James Ellis on Monday night was awakened by a young man who was going home from calling on a friend, and who told that in the alley up the street farther was some person in terrible distress. Mr. Ellis and the young man, heavily armed, started for the scene, and upon reaching the place where the mournful cries had come from, found a goal with several small ones belonging to Tony Giandomini. The goal was hurried and cried very much like a person in distress.

Sea Born.

The plot of this interesting screen production concerns an American youth who falls in love with the daughter of an Italian. His rival, Chico, blackmails the girl's father and tries vainly to get the girl. The father is supposed to be murdered, but turns up unexpectedly the close. The vineyard settings are attractive and photographed with the smooth even effect for which the Bluebirds are famous. Carmel Myers is attractive as usual in the role of the Italian girl, Dona Kenneth Harlan makes a splendid hero. A selected comedy is included Tomorrow, Ethel Clayton, the fascinating World star, will be featured in "The Witch Woman," her newest attraction, in which she portrays a startling role. The splendid picture was written for Miss Clayton by Willard Mack, the famous author of one of the biggest stage successes of the current New York season. "The Witch Woman" is noted for its splendid scenes and superb acting. The scenery is of the sort that will long be remembered by all those who see the picture, and the story is one of the kind that sticks in the memory for months. Friday, Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne will be seen in "The Brass Check." On Saturday "The Auction Block," a Goldwyn feature, will be shown.

THE SOINSON.

"REDEMPTION," with Evelyn Nesbit and her son, Russell Thaw, considered by many one of the most remarkable photo-plays yet screened, and fresh from a highly successful career on Broadway, New York, where it was a profound sensation, winning instantly with the overwhelming ceremony of its story, and the thrill and intense interest of its narrative, is being shown for the last time today at the Soinson theatre, this afternoon and tonight. The excellent direction of Julius Steger and Joseph A. Goldman is evident throughout. No expense was spared to make "Redemptio" out a noteworthy play, which will greatly interest not only through the star's name and the part that her life plays in the story, but also in the production. There is an extraordinary fascination about Miss Nesbit. That indefinable something which transcends beauty and genius and is often called personality is here in full measure. She has one of those rare and charming natures that win an instant response of complete sympathy from all who come within their spell. Her transparent sweetness of character, which the screen reveals as nothing else ever did, will add greatly to her personal attractions and mental gifts in making her one of the greatest favorites of the world-wide picture loving public.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"THE DEBT OF HONOR."—A five reel William Fox drama, featuring Peggy Hyland, has to do with the sacrifice an orphan makes to repay a U. S. senator for his kindness in adopting her. This wife loves a man who is a German spy, and extracts from the senator's safe United States government secrets. Miss Hyland's own sweetheart aids her in getting the spy and in bringing back to herself the lost affection of the senator. Tomorrow Olive Tell is featured in "The Girl and the Judge," and shows how a kleptomaniac kept her friends busy.

Coming fresh from a remarkable engagement at the Cohan Theatre, New York, where it was the supreme photodramatic sensation of the year, we are to see "Redemption," with Evelyn Nesbit and her son, Russell Thaw.

In this, her screen debut, Miss Nesbit became a star over night. Broadway went wild over "Redemption." It was a profound sensation, winning instantly by superb photoplay, the thrill and tense interest of its narrative, the great mother-love displayed by the heroine. Miss Nesbit's truly wonderful emotional powers, the excellent cast and fine stage direction by Julius Steger and Joseph A. Golden, nothing just like it ever had been seen before and Broadway enthusiastically welcomed the novelty.

MAKE USE OF SNAKES

SCIENTISTS FIND DEADLY REPTILES AN AID IN MEDICINE.

Captured at Much Risk, Their Peculiar Value Great—Are "Baited" to Induce Them to Eject Valuable Poison.

The majority of snakes are not, as most people suppose, aggressive in their habits, but, like the British viper, far more anxious to get out of the way of the human intruder than into it. But there are a few famous, or infamous, exceptions, and the cobra, one of the largest of the cobras, and a native of Africa—is said to be the most dangerous reptile in the world. It will fly at anything and anybody; goes out of its way to pick a quarrel with every passer-by, and has even been known to come down from a tree where it was resting, apparently fast asleep, to try conclusions with a man armed with a gun. The only snake that at all approaches the cobra in ferocity is the great king cobra, or hamadryad of the east, which is larger than the cobra and generally quite as ready to interfere with any living creature that comes within its ken. It has been known to chase a man on horseback, and so fast can it travel that it is said none but a swift-footed animal has any chance of escape. The poison of both these snakes is so powerful that, as some one once stated in an examination paper on reptiles, "even a scorpion stung when bitten by either of these ferocious creatures, ceases to be interested in the matter after the space of a few minutes." Among the Australian cobras, the pitvipers of America, and the great West African vipers, there are certain species that prefer the offensive to the defensive method, and in most cases it is the aggressive varieties that carry the most poisonous fangs.

Snake-baiting is an amusement that few persons would care to indulge in, but it appears that this hazardous occupation is an actual business in certain parts of Australia. The poison is said to be invaluable in the preparation of particular medicines, and is also much sought after by scientists and experimenters. Its value is such, indeed, that the snake poison collected by the natives of New South Wales has been sold for as much as a sovereign to twenty-five shillings a grain, which works out at the amazing figure of $30,000 per pound Troy. The business of snake-catching is naturally exceedingly dangerous, but some of the Australian snake hunters are so expert that they can take their quarry with no other weapon but their hands. While one attracts the reptile's attention another creeps up behind and grasps the snake by the neck, and so holds it until it can be transferred to a cage or bag. The reptiles are then taken to their permanent cages, where they are at intervals "baited" with a specially prepared instrument, upon whose end is a rubber band encircling a small sheet of glass. The snake bites

MAKE PREY OF POOR

EXTRAVAGANT FUNERALS ENCOURAGED BY UNDERTAKER.

Afflicted Relatives, in the First Throes of Distress, Induced to Assume Pecuniary Burdens That Later Are Severely Felt.

One cannot go among the poor very much without hearing more or less circumstantial stories of how the unscrupulous undertaker fleeces them.

Writes Arthur B. Reeves in Harper's Weekly: "In fact, nothing less than ghastly are some of the stories that are related to show how pressure is brought to bear on distracted people to cause them excessive expense in burying their dead. A dying husband begged his wife that she give him only a plain funeral. She promised, but when the undertaker came the relatives were present. As soon as she said she wanted only a modest funeral the undertaker sneered. 'Is that all you thought of your husband to bury him like that?' She was shamed into spending not only more than she had promised, but more than the insurance he had asked her to save."

"This is the last thing you can do for your wife," one undertaker urged a poor porter, "and you don't want to be haunted by the thought that you were mean." Then the crafty tradesman in death pointed to the children and cruelly wrung the man's heart by adding: "If you don't do the right thing by their mother they will curse you to your dying day." It is hardly necessary to say that this distracted man demonstrated his love for the dead wife and mother by having a funeral which condemned the children to actual hunger and want.

Another undertaker refused to go to Bellevue for the body of a child until the mother gave him a golden crucifix, an heirloom, as security. Such cases could be multiplied if it were of any use, for cases of this kind are so common among the very poor as to be almost proverbial. That is not to say that all undertakers, or even a majority of them, are rogues. They are precisely like every other body of men—some honest, some unscrupulous, charging "all that the traffic will bear."

Once having been accepted, the venture undertaker has the family at his mercy. For instance, in one case a chattel mortgage on all the household furniture was demanded. The family refused indignantly. But when they approached a second undertaker they found he would not take the case because the code of ethics forbade him. They either had to take the original undertaker on his own terms or submit to having a pauper burial.

Acrobatic Pair.
"The bride who married the military hero went up the aisle, the account says, on her father's arm."
"The bridegroom was quite as acrobatic. He went up over a lot of other people's heads."

An 18-hole golf course at Atlantic City, open to the public, is one of the possibilities for the near future at the south Jersey resort.

FOX LIVES UP TO ITS NAME

Many Are the Ruses Employed by Reynard in Making Successful Escapes From the Hounds.

The reputation of a north of England pack was suffering, and the huntmen were baffled over and over again by a certain fox, which they always lost at exactly the same spot. He gave them a grand run to the side of the wood, and then disappeared, leaving no clue as to where he had holed.

At last the head huntman hid himself before the meet at this particular place. As usual, Reynard worked off his old trick, and this is how he did it. By the side of the wood ran a rail fence, and he coolly mounted it, walked along the top for a short distance, jumped upon a large tree which was hollow half-way up, and, creeping inside, was safe. The hounds, of course, lost the scent when he left the ground.

As in this case, the two following instances were watched, and the fox tried his best move once too often. Number one was always lost just on the top of a hill, and it was proved that he did not descend the other side. On the hilltop there was a hollow, and he would run, with the hounds not far off, up the bank, and then quietly lay himself flat down in the bottom of this hollow. Right over him ran the hounds and galloped the horses. When they pulled up over the crest the scent was finished. After they had all passed him, fox simply crept out and went back on his old track.

The other one used to trick the hounds at the top of a steep precipice, with a face of rock over which no hound would go—but Reynard did. He stretched out his legs and slid down the rock with his face to it, as a man would, until his hind legs rested on a narrow ledge. He let himself down carefully, walked along the ledge and entered a crevice at the end. From this place he apparently had no way of escape, for the rock was too steep to negotiate in either direction.

It was found, however, that he had a back door on the side of the hill—a tunnel running between the two openings. Had he entered the hole on the hillside he would have been caught, but his front door was safe, because no one could see it from the top of the precipice.—Exchange.

What Makes This Possible?

Why is it that American farmers today are able to go about their work in peace, to cultivate and develop their farms and to get the full results of their work in freedom and peace?

Why is it that unlike the devastated districts of Europe, their farms are peaceful and prosperous and no one interferes with their reaping the full reward of their labors?

Just one thing—the United States Government.

The United States Government is simply another way of speaking of the people of America, because, of course, the people are the government.

As a part of the United States Government you have a share to perform in protecting this country from the enemy and your share is lending money by buying LIBERTY BONDS.

"Perhaps," he said, doubtfully. A moment, then his frown lightened. "You give me a thought," said he. "You shall wear the jewels."

"Wear them? How?"

"On your back, in that very hump. It will be the safest possible way to conceal them."

Rosa clasped her hands in delight. "Why, of course! It is the very thing. Wait until I show you."

Profiting by her first moment alone—Evangelina and her husband being still in ignorance of the contents of the treasure box—Rosa made a hasty exit of the jewels and trinkets and fastened it securely inside her coat. After a few experiments she adjusted it to her liking, then called O'Reilly once more. This time he was better satisfied. An application of Evangelina's paint to darken her face, a few tatters and a liberal application of dirt to the suit, and he declared that Rosa would pass anywhere as a boy.

There came a night when the three of them bade good-by to their black companions and slipped away across the city to that section known as Finca Nueve, then followed the road along the water front until they found shelter within the shadows of a rickety structure which had once served as a bath house.

The refugees waited a long time; they were beginning to fear that old Morin's nerve had weakened at the eleventh hour, when they beheld a skiff approaching the shore. It glided closer, entered the shade of the bath house, then a voice cried:

"Here! You are there? It was Morin himself."

Hastily the three piled aboard. Morin bent to his oars and the skiff shot out. "You were not observed?" he inquired.

"No."

Morin rowed in silence for a time. "When do you sail?" O'Reilly asked.

"At dawn, God permitting. You will have to remain hidden and you mustn't even breathe."

He brought the skiff alongside a battered old schooner, and his passengers clambered aboard. There was a tiny cabin aft and on it, sheltered from the night dew by a loose fold of the mainsail, were two sleeping men. The newcomers followed Morin down into the evil little cabin, where he warned them in a hoarse whisper:

"Not a sound, mind you. If anyone comes aboard, you must shift for yourselves. Creep into the hold and hide. Of course, if we are searched—He muttered something, then groped his way out on deck, and closed the hatch behind him."

Now that they had actually embarked upon this enterprise and the girl had given herself entirely into his hands, now that an imminent peril encompassed them both, Johanna felt that Rosa belonged to him more absolutely, more completely, than at any time heretofore, so he held her close. Rosa lay relaxed against her lover's shoulder and in halting murmurs, interrupted many times by caresses, she told O'Reilly of her need for him, and her utter happiness. It was the fullest hour of their lives.

With daylight, Morin routed out his men. There was a sleepy muttering, the patter of bare feet upon the deck above, then the creak of blocks as the sails were raised. A few moments, then there came a hail which brought their hearts into their throats. Morin himself answered the call.

"Good morning, countryman! Have you caught any of those accursed filibusters since I saw you last? So? Cayo Romano, eh? What have I aboard?" Morin laughed loudly. "You know very well—cannon and shot for the rebels, of course. Will you look? . . . No? . . . Then a cup of coffee perhaps?"

O'Reilly peeped through a dirty stained cabin window and saw that the schooner was slipping past the stern of the roadstead, so he withdrew his head quickly.

Of course this was but one danger past and there were many more ahead, for Morin's schooner was liable to be stopped by any of the numerous patrol boats on duty to the eastward. Nevertheless, when an anxious hour had gone by and she was well out toward the harbor mouth, the refugees took another step toward safety.

CHAPTER XXI.

Three Travelers Came Home.

Esteban Varona made slow progress toward recovery. In the weeks following O'Reilly's departure from Cuba his gain was steady, but beyond a certain point he seemed unable to go. Then he began to lose strength. Esteban awoke to the fact that he was losing ground, and his dismay was keen, for a wonderful thing had come into his life and he spent much of his time in delicious contemplative day dreams concerning it, waiting for the hour when he would share transitory thrills of joy and happiness. It seemed to him that he had always loved Norine—certainly she had ensnared herself in his heart long before his mind had regained its clarity, for he had come out of his delicious wanderings with his love full grown.

The time came finally when he could no longer permit the girl to deceive herself or him with her brave assumption of cheerfulness. Norine had just told him that he was doing famously, but he smiled and shook his very head.

"Let's be honest," he said. "You know and I know that I can't get well."

"You mustn't be discouraged," she said, earnestly. "Remember this is trying climate and we have no hint

"Esteban, Dear, I'll Never, Never Leave You!"

and then the government will see that you are put safely aboard the first ship that returns. I'll manage to get well somehow."

Norine's color had returned. She stood over the hammock, looking down intently. "Don't you need me, what me any more?" she inquired.

Esteban turned his tired eyes away, fearing to betray in them his utter weakness. "You have done all there is to do. I want you to go back into your own world and forget me."

A sudden impulse seized the girl. She stopped and gathered the sick man into her young, strong arms. "Don't be silly," she cried. "My world is your world, Esteban dear. I'll never, never leave you."

"Miss Evans! Norine!" Varona tried feebly to free himself. "You must!"

Norine drew him closer. "You're going to tell me that you have nothing, can offer me nothing. You're going to do the generous, noble thing. Well, I hate generous people, I'm selfish, utterly selfish and spoiled, and I don't propose to be robbed of anything I want, least of all my happiness. You do love me, don't you?"

Esteban's cry was eloquent; he clasped his arms about her and she held him fiercely to her breast.

"We're quite mad, quite insane," he told her after a while. "This only makes it harder to give you up."

"You're not going to give me up and you're not going to die. I shan't let you. Think what you have to live for."

"I—did wrong to surrender."

"It was I who surrendered. Come! Must I say it all? Aren't you going to ask me?"

"What?"

"Why, to marry you, of course. We're going to be married, and I'm going to take you out of this miserable place."

"What happiness!" he murmured. "If I were well—But I won't let you marry a dying man."

Norine rose, her face aglow with new strength, new determination. "I brought you back when you were all but gone. I saved you after the others had given you up, and now you are mine to do with as I please. You belong to me and I shan't consult you."

She turned, for a figure had darkened the door; it was one of her English-speaking convalescents who was acting as a sort of orderly.

"Senorita," the man said, with a flash of white teeth, "we have another sick man, and you'd never guess who. It is that American, El Demonio."

"Is he sick or wounded?" Esteban inquired.

"Shot by a Spanish bullet. He asked for once for our senorita."

"Of course, I'll come in an instant." When the messenger had gone Norine bent and pressed her lips to Esteban's.

"Remember, you're mine to do with as I please," she said; then she fled down the grassy street.

Branch was waiting at Norine's quarters, a soiled figure of dejection.

"Shoot Down the Red Cross Flag"

—Kaiser's Orders.

"The wounded who lay in No Man's Land were left to perish. The French tried to rescue them under the Red Cross flag but we only sneered at them and shot it to bits. The Red Cross flag had lost all its value for us when it was raised by the French. Mistrust was nurtured among us. We were told that the enemy misused the flag and that we must shoot down the men who bore it."

His left arm lay in a sling across his breast. He looked up at her approach, but she scarcely recognized him, so greatly changed was he.

"Hello, Norine!" he cried. "Well, they got me."

Norine paused in astonishment. "Why, Leslie! I was so frightened! But—you can't be badly hurt."

"Bad enough so that Lopez sent me in. A fellow gets flyblown if he stays in the field, so I beat it."

"Has your arm been dressed?"

"No, I wouldn't let these rough-and-tumble doctors touch it. They'd amputate at the shoulder for a hangnail. I don't trust 'em."

"Then I'll look at it!"

"It doesn't hurt, really," he declared. "It's only a scratch."

"Then behave yourself." Norine forced the patient into a chair and withdrew his arm from the sling.

Then, despite his weak resistance, she deftly removed the bandage. From his expression she felt sure that she must be hurting him, but when the injury was exposed she looked up in wonderment.

"Leslie!" she exclaimed. "What in the world—"

Branch struggled with himself, he swallowed hard, then said: "You can see now why I didn't go to a doctor; I did it—shot myself. You won't give me away?"

Norine seated herself weakly; she stared in bewilderment at the unhappy speaker. "Afraid? You, El Demonio! Why, you aren't afraid of anything!"

"Say! You don't believe all that stuff, do you? I'm afraid of my shadow and always have been. I'm not brave and never was. They told me I was going to die and it scared me so that I tried to end things quickly. I couldn't bear to die slowly, to know that I was dying by inches. But, Lord! it scared me even worse to go into battle. I was blind with fright all the time and I never got over it. Why, the sight of a gun gives me a chill, and I jump every time one goes off. Lord, how I've suffered! I went crazy at our first engagement—crazy with fear. I didn't know where I was, or what happened, or anything. Afterward, when they hailed me as a hero, I thought they were kidding, that everybody must know how frightened I was. After a time I saw that I'd fooled them, and that I shamed them. Then—I had to keep it up or become ridiculous. But it nearly killed me."

It so happened that the president and well-known nature preservation cabinet were in Cuba. Leslie and Norine went directly to the former. He promptly sent for the minister of justice, who in turn gallantly put himself at Norine's disposal. In no time the news had spread and there was subdued excitement throughout the camp. Norine was between tears and laughter when she ran panting into Esteban's cabin, leaving Branch to wait outside.

At sight of her Esteban uttered a low cry of happiness. "Dearest! I've been lying in a stupor of delight. The world has become bright. I hear people laughing. What a change!"

"I've arranged everything! The president and his cabinet are coming to witness the ceremony."

Esteban poised upon his elbow, his face was a mask. "What have you arranged?" he managed to inquire.

"Sh-h!" Norine laid a finger upon his lips. "The guest of the republic is to be married today."

"Norine! Oh, my dear—" quavered the sick man. "I can't let you do this mad thing. Think! I'm ready for the grave."

"This will make you well. We're going away when the very next expedition arrives."

"I haven't the strength to refuse," Esteban murmured. "And yet, how can I accept Cuba? What right have I to leave happiness and leave Rosa?"

This was a subject which Norine dreaded, a question to which she knew no answer. She was not in a mood to discuss it, and made no attempt to do so. Instead, she laid the hand upon his pillow, saying:

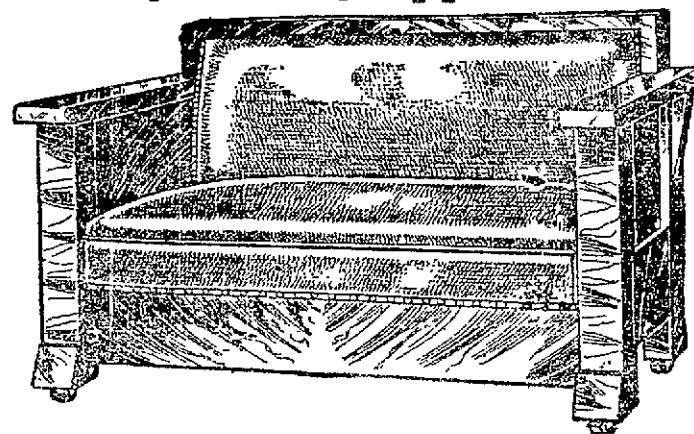

"Leslie is waiting to wish you joy and a quick recovery. May I ask him in?"

Spring Coat of Silk and Wool.

So long as they must economize in food, designers appear to have made up their minds to do it gracefully. When they accomplish such a combination as appears in the coat for spring, shown above, we are inclined to be thankful for the necessity that mothers such lovely invention. Rich satin and peach-skin velour vie with each other in it and the satin in a heavy soft quality cannot outclass the velour. The velour, in fact is used as if for decorating the coat, but is an important part of the garment in which the two materials are nicely balanced.

The body of the coat is made of the satin and is cut full. The lower part is of the velour, set on in a very wide band machine stitched along the top. A shirred cape collar of satin at the back has its length doubled by a wide band of the velour. The cuffs are made of it and the belt is bordered with it also.

The belt is wide but the softness of the satin allows it to crush so that it slips through slides of satin at the sides of the coat, ties at the front and hangs in long ends. Altogether the design accords with the new departure in the combination of silk and wool by presenting equally new features in its style.

Velour is made in lightweights that make this beautiful fabric practical for spring and summer coats. For the coming season style decrees that the separate coat fall short of reaching to the bottom of the skirt by several inches and there is a rumor of three-quarter length models for summer wear. There is a variety of colors, several of them in the square cape style across the back and lengthened into peters at the front. Belts play a leading role also employed in many ways but always present. Coats are full but hang straight and some of them are smartly military looking.

A WHOLE DINNER IN ONE-DISH.

Everybody Will Like the One-Dish Dinner.

A dish hot and savory—good for work or play—that is why the father and the children will like it.

Easy to cook and serve—that is one reason why you will like it. Only one dish to cook, few plates to wash, steps saved.

Good, nourishing food—you can feed sure that you are feeding your family right if you give them this dinner. It contains all their bodies need to help them work and grow strong.

This dinner helps you do your part for your country. You can save wheat and meat to ship abroad. Our soldiers and the allies need them more than we do.

Try These One-Dish Dinners.

Each of these dinners contains sufficient for a family of five.

Fish Chowder.

Rabbit, fowl, or any meat may be used instead of the fish, or tomatoes instead of milk. Carrots may be omitted.

One and one-half pounds fish (fresh, salt, or canned).

Nine potatoes, peeled and cut in small pieces.

One onion, sliced.

Two cups carrots cut in pieces.

One-fourth pound salt pork.

Three cups milk. Pepper.

Three tablespoons flour.

Cut pork in small pieces and fry with the chopped onion for five minutes. Put pork, onions, carrots, and potatoes in kettle and cover with boiling water. Cook until vegetables are tender. Mix three tablespoons of flour with one-half cup of the cold milk and stir in the liquid in the pot to thicken. Add the rest of the milk and until vegetables are tender. Mix three tablespoons of flour with half cup of

of the cold milk and stir in the liquid in the pot to thicken. All the rest of the fish, which has been removed from the bone and cut in small pieces. Cook until the fish is tender, about ten minutes. Serve hot. You can omit salt pork and use a tablespoon of other fat.

Dried Peas With Rice and Tomatoes.

One and one-half cups rice.

Two cups dried peas.

Six onions.

One tablespoon salt.

One-fourth teaspoonful pepper.

Two cups tomato (fresh or canned).

Soak peas overnight in two quarts of water. Cook until tender in water in which they soaked. Add rice, onions, tomato and seasonings and cook 20 minutes.

Potted Ham and Beef.

Ham is excellent to use as part of a one-dish dinner, if you have a fire in your stove so that you can cook it for a long time, or use a fireless cooker. Heat one and one-half quarts of water to boiling; add one teaspoonful of salt and two cups of hominy which has been soaked overnight. Cook in a double boiler for four hours or in the fireless cooker overnight. This makes five cups. This recipe may be increased and enough cooked in different ways for several meals. Hominy is excellent combined with dried, canned, or fresh fish, or meat and vegetable left-overs may be used. Here is one combination:

Five cups cooked hominy.

Four potatoes.

Two cups carrots.

One teaspoonful salt.

One-fourth pound dried beef.

Two cups milk.

Two tablespoons fat.

Two tablespoons flour.

Melt the fat, stir in the flour, add the cold milk, and mix well. Cook until it thickens. Cut the potatoes and carrots in dice, mix all the materials in a baking dish, and bake for one hour.

These dishes supply all five kinds of food. Each is enough for the whole dinner for a family of five. Eat them with bread and with fruit or jam for dessert. Then you will have all the five kinds of food your body needs. These five kinds are shown on the next page.

THEY GAVE HER VINOL FOR BRONCHITIS

West Somerville, Mass.—"I suffered from a severe attack of bronchitis, with a terrible cough, no appetite, no energy, no strength and loss of sleep. The usual remedies failed to help me, but they gave me Vinol and it restored my appetite, stopped the cough and built up my strength so I am able to do my housework again."—Mrs. P. B. Thayer

We guarantee Vinol for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis, because it is a constitutional cod liver and iron remedy. Formula of every bottle.

The Five Food Groups.

1. Vegetables or fruits.

2. Milk, or cheese, or eggs, or fish, or meat, or beans.

3. Cereal: Corn, rice, oats, rye, or wheat.

4. Sugar or sugar.

5. Fat: Such as drippings, oleomargarine, oil, butter.

Choose something from each of these five groups every day.

More One-Dish Meals.

There are some more recipes for dishes of this kind in other United States food leaflets.

"Instead of Meat" (leaflet No. 8) tells what foods are good to use when you don't buy meat, and how to make some meatless one-dish meals.

"Make a Little Meat Go a Long Way" (leaflet No. 9) will help you to cut down your meat bill. The savory stews and meat pies show how you can give your family a good one-dish meal by using a little meat in various combinations.

You can make up other recipes for yourself by combining foods from most of the five groups. Pass them on to your neighbor.

NOT THE SHOCK EXPECTED

Seemingly, Debutante Would Have Been Willing If It Had Been Otherwise.

After the Spanish melon, while waiting the cold consommé, a young Japanese diplomat took the fan from the white hand of a debutante, and opened it—from the right to left delicately.

"You noticed how I opened it?" he said. "From right to left."

"Yes," she returned indifferently. "But everybody opens fans from right to left."

"And do you know why? No! I'll tell you—I'll warn you—so that you yourself may never, by any chance, open a fan from left to right."

He slipped his amber-colored chablis and resumed:

"Fans originated in Japan, and from time immemorial the Japanese fan-makers, whose morality is not like western morality, have constructed fans in such a manner that, opened from right to left, they reveal innocent and lovely things—flowers and temples and tea gardens—while, opened from left to right, they reveal scenes of an indecency and obscenity passing belief."

"Of course, all Japanese fans are not of a double entendre such as this, but many are, and hence Japan has taught the world to open its fans in only one way—the safe way."

The young lady opened her fan, very cautiously, the unsafe way. Then she said:

"Pshaw, my fan is all right."

And then gave a little disappointed shrug of her white shoulders.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Pig Hunts Rabbits.

J. H. Lankford of Lewis, Md., a village just across the lower Delaware line, has a pig that hunts rabbits and joins in chases with its owner's dogs.

This pig is a thoroughbred of the Chester County White variety and is known as Sir Granger. It was the light last August, and was allowed to run around the Lankford homestead with a pair of rabbit dogs, and it followed the dogs to the woods and hunted with them.

When the rabbit season opened and the rabbit dogs went on a hunt the pig followed. Mr. Lankford tried to fasten up the animal, but in vain. Finally he gave the pig its liberty and permitted it to follow the dogs at will.

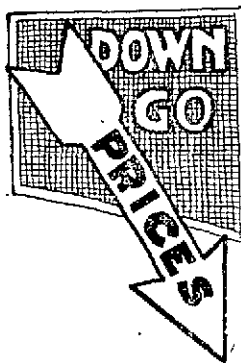

Mr. Lankford says he will endeavor to train the pig so that it will hunt without dogs.

SEED IMPORTANT IN HOME GARDEN

Order Early in Effort to Secure Supply of Vegetables for Table and Canning.

WELL-LAID PLAN GREAT AID

Approximate Quantities of Seed That Should Be Purchased Is Given in Table—Working Space Is Important Factor

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Get the seed for your home garden early. This is an important step in the home gardener's effort to supply fresh vegetables for his table and for canning, and to help relieve the demand on the country's supplies of food.

Seed should be ordered well in advance of the time for planting in the open so that it will be ready for planting in flats or frames and also for use outdoors as soon as the weather and the condition of the soil make it possible. Before ordering seed the home gardener should decide what vegetables he wants to raise and also should plan and decide on the best location for each vegetable determining how much seed will be required for the space available for each variety. A well-laid garden plan series will be a great aid in determining the amounts and varieties of seed that will be needed.

Seed for Garden

Following are the approximate quantities of seed that should be purchased for a garden which is to supply vegetables.

Produce From Backyard Garden.

tables for successive plantings throughout the season for a family of four—

Beans snap	1 to 2 quarts
Beans pole Lima	1 pint
Beans bush Lima	1 pint
Beets	4 ounces
Cabbage (early)	1 packet
Cabbage (late)	1 ounce
Carrot	1 ounce
Cauliflower	1 packet
Celery	1 packet
Corn sweet	1 to 2 pints
Cucumber	1 ounce
Eggplant	1 packet
Kale or Swiss chard	1 ounce
Lettuce	1 ounce
Muskmelon	1 ounce
Onion sets	4 to 8 quarts
Peas	1 packet
Parasol	1 ounce
Peas garden	1 to 4 quarts
Peas early	1 ounce
Radish	1 ounce
Salsify	1 ounce
Spinach	1 pound in spring and 1/2 pound in fall
Squash (summer)	1 ounce
Squash (winter)	1 ounce
Tomatoes early	1 packet
Tomatoes late	1 ounce
Turnips	1 to 2 ounces
Watermelon	1 ounce

Space for Garden

If a gardener should desire to plant all of the vegetables mentioned it is calculated by garden specialists of the U. S. department of agriculture that enough space could be found for them in one fourth of an acre. However it is advised that the gardener unless he has had one or more years experience center his work on as few as six of the more important vegetables. For most of the vegetables listed the plantings may consist of the entire quantities mentioned. Relatively small quantities of cauliflower, egg plant and parsley should be sufficient for most families. The entire supply of string beans, bush Lima beans, sweet corn, lettuce, peas and radishes should not be planted at one time but successive plantings two or three weeks apart should be made so that a fresh supply of the vegetables may be had throughout the season.

Of early Irish potatoes 1 peck to 1/2 bushel will be required and of late potatoes 1/2 bushel to 1 bushel or more depending upon the amount of ground available for this purpose. If abundant space is available it may be well to grow enough Irish potatoes to last throughout the winter.

PLANT FOOD IS BIG FACTOR

Not a Simple Problem of Supplying Manure and Commercial Fertilizers to Make Fertility

The expression soil fertility is used to include the factors which make a soil productive. Plant feeding is not a simple problem of supplying manure and commercial fertilizers. An abundance of available plant food is an essential factor of soil fertility but there are other important factors.

SAID BY WITS OF THE PAST

Memoria of London Merchant Told of Many Good Quips He Had Heard

The late John Richard Clayton of the firm of Clayton & Bell glass painter of London England had some good stories of his experiences with the pre-Raphaelite brethren.

He was once sought out by the painter. He called on Rossetti in his studio and listened to the brilliant descriptions of the young men against whom they called the old names of modern painting. Sloshy was the term they applied to all the art of that day and they did not spare Sir Sloshy in Reynolds himself. Clayton was fond of telling how he noticed that the studio was hung all round with photographs of the works of the great masters but he was astonished to see that they were all either on their knees or on their heads. After pleasant talk he ventured to inquire the reason of the strange hangings. Rossetti affected to be puzzled at Clayton's discovery.

Why he added "aren't they right?" Then Rossetti showed him. Hum. Well, here's a fellow who knows the way these sloshy things should be hung.

PLACE CONFIDENCE IN SOIL

Land Will Do Just What Farmer Will Let it in Way of Producing Various Crops

Confidence in the soil means much for good farming. If you believe your soil will respond to good tillage you are apt to trust it that far. If you believe your soil will pay for the extra expense you are likely to make greater investment. But after all it is self confidence for the soil will be just what you let it in the way of production.

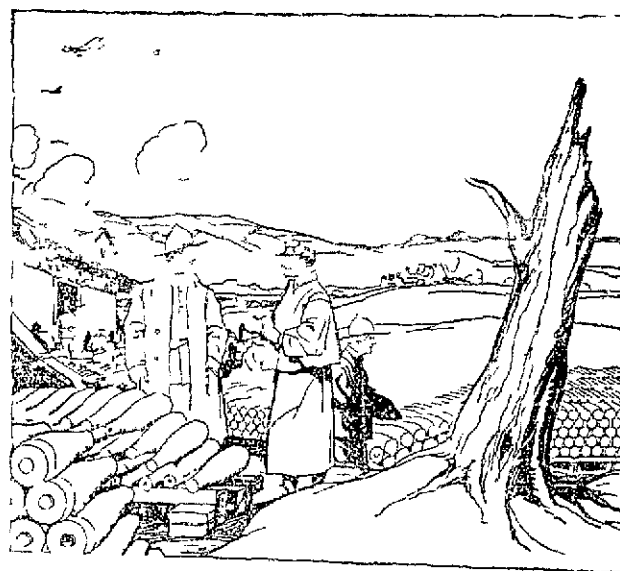

Planting Carrots

Carrots planted in the early spring are used commonly in the fall as well as during the summer but a much more tender product is obtained for fall and winter use if a second planting is made about June 15 to July 1.

Favorite Garden Plants

Radishes and lettuce are favorite plants in small gardens because while these are attractive additions to the table they are in a way luxuries on which many housewives hesitate to spend money.

Of course the cures will make the most of the declaration that the married men in the trenches stand shell shock better than the single ones.

The Cost of Shells

When the battle is raging and everything depends on the ability of the artillery to stop the rush of the advancing enemy or to clear the way for our men, it does not matter to the gunner how much the shells cost. What matters to him is that he shall have as many shells as he needs—that means life or death, victory or defeat.

Modern warfare is very expensive and this war will be won by those who are able to provide the last few million dollars. That is why it is necessary for the United States Government to have great quantities of money so that there shall never be a shortage of shells or other necessities.

LIBERTY BONDS will provide this money. You are not asked to GIVE a penny, merely to LEND it at liberal interest to the richest government in the world.

Every LIBERTY BOND you buy stands between the American soldier and the enemy. It saves the lives of our men and provides them with the means of victory.

SECRETARY OF NAVY SAYS: "LABOR WILL WIN THE WAR"

By JOSEPHUS DANIELS, Secretary of the Navy man upon whom everything else depends. Labor is needed for all preparedness. Labor is mobilized. It will do its part in winning the war, and when the war is won Labor will have won its own war.

THE workers of this country are the corner-stones of the country's strength and efficiency. They are needed in every field of endeavor, to keep industry going at home so that we may be effective in backing up our troops at the front.

If one would ask in Washington: "What do you need to win the war?" McAdoo would say: "Money, pay your taxes and buy bonds to furnish the sinews of war." Garfield would say: "Coal will win the war—it is needed to bunker ships and to run all essential industries." Hoover would say: "Food will win the war."

If you ask the Navy I would say, "Ships will win the war" and so on. But the real answer is: Labor, capable and ready, will win the war.

You can mine no coal, you can produce no crops, you can build no ships, you can equip no soldiers or sailors to fight—in the last analysis the man who toils is the ty Loan" in white.

BOND BUYING NATIONAL SERVICE

Uncle Sam wishes to enlist every man, woman and child of the nation in the Third Liberty Loan campaign. When an individual invests in a Liberty Bond he enlists in the production division of the Nation, thereby supporting and backing up the men who are fighting in France that the world may be free.

OVER A CRIB

The sides of his crib bear the chips and the scars—That are one with the four-year-old sleeping; And the noise has died down that he made with the bars. As the sandman came stealthily creeping; There's a sturdy small arm out on top of his quilt. There's a tumbled head empty of care—But imagine a Prussian sword sunk to the hilt In that picture of pure contentment!

Your mind as you stand, father, over his bed, Runs ahead with him over the years. And his future you've charted all out in your head. Without any big worries or fears. On the castle you build him the legend of success Is writ deep in the firm corner stone—How your castle would crumble you dare not even guess Should the Kaiser transplant here his throne!

For the lad that means all to you, then, good old dad, For the lad you see there in his dreams, For the boy whom you'd hate to have think you a cad, For the "kid upon whom your love hangs" You must go—of your means to the Liberty Loan That the world may be safe for your son—Can you picture the boy's future—mother's—your own, If the lord of the world were the Hun? —A. M. CORRIGAN.

By MICHAEL J. HICKEY, Manager Industrial Department, National Association of Manufacturers, New York.

Business in 1918 is to be war. It will primarily be war against a well prepared enemy without our borders.

We must not permit it to be war within our borders, as it will be if the blacklegging, misadventurings and social unconscientiousness are not effectively and constructively dealt with by those who are directly concerned with American industry.

The National Industrial Conservation Movement will continue to exert every possible and legitimate energy at the command of its writers, public speakers, printed literature, moving picture films, co-operating chambers of commerce, boards of trade, religious, civic, social and patriotic bodies, to spread the gospel of industrial co-operation.

Certain agencies abroad in this land are constantly seeking, creating and leading upon every possible form of excuse and opportunity to sow the seeds of dissatisfaction, discontent and unrest in our industrial world. These agencies thrive on misrepresentation, exaggeration and agitation of desire.

Must Combat "Isms." They preach hair brained "isms," class hatred and sedition. To defeat them is not only an imperative work for our national safety, but a patriotic duty, incumbent upon every thoughtful American. It cannot be done by the occasional denouncing of such national enemies, thus affording them the notoriety by which they thrive, but must be combated in the public interest by a carefully worked out campaign to present the impartial truth on the industrial, social and economic problems at stake.

Wage earners must be made to more fully appreciate that their interest in American industry is mutual with that of our wage payers so far as our industrial prosperity is concerned.

Wage payers who do not realize the value of cultivating the human element in their plants must likewise have shown the necessity for them to literally interpret and practically apply the lesson of co-operation.

It must also be recognized by our public officials and communities in general that a healthy industrial atmosphere is only possible when friendly relations rather than class antagonisms are fostered by law and public print.

It should continue to be the purpose of our work on a national scale to diplomatically and truthfully correct the misinformation and spirit of thoughtlessness which has so frequently led the public into acts of reprisal that are inimical to their own interests as well as to the interests of the industrial institutions upon which our national welfare as well as our individual comfort and convenience is so dependent.

The patriotic importance of this work must be evident to all careful observers of events at this time. In its relation to our future industrial development the intrinsic value of a better understanding all round cannot be overestimated.

Spread the Truth. We will dedicate our energies to the spreading of the truth, the awakening of public thought and the public's sense of mutual interest and responsibility. We believe there is no more room in this country for profiteering on the part of so called Capital or so called Labor.

Our work will also involve a further extension of the campaign to protect and conserve the lives, limbs and general health of wage earners, the ruinous absorption by industry of jobless warriors and such of our soldiers who may be partially crippled in our military service, the maintenance of our armed forces in the field and comforts of our home staying citizens as well as of our brave allies. Our industries must likewise do their full and important share in the financing of our war operations.—Industrial Conservation, New York.

HEALING RELIEF FOR TORTURING ECZEMA

A. A. Clarke has sold hundreds of jars of HOKARA, and although he offered to refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied purchaser, not one jar has been returned.

While this is surprising in itself, yet the most amazing thing is the reports of chronic cases of eczema that have been cured by this simple skin food. People who have suffered with scales, scabs and even bleeding itching have found relief in HOKARA.

No matter where the eczema, pimples or other breaking out occurs, whether on the face, hands, legs or body, the application of HOKARA should give quick relief, and even the worst or most chronic cases should be cured in a short time.

You can buy a liberal-sized jar today at the very low price of 35c, and with every package goes A. A. Clarke's guarantee to refund the money if it is not satisfactory.—Adv.

FEMININE MODESTY SHOWN UP

Seems to Be Three-Fifths Convention. One Fifth Provocation and One-Fifth Humbug.

A lady philanthropist, who is greatly interested in a new hospital for women, lays stress on the necessity for a complete staff of women not only as attendants and nurses, but also as physicians. Her reasons are worthy of some attention, remarks the Argonaut. The hospital, she says, is for poor women, and poor women are so much more modest than those in easier circumstances. Women of the leisured classes do not shrink from confiding their intimate physical troubles to the man physician, whereas their poorer sisters will often allow their small ailments to grow into large ones because they cannot bring themselves to consult a physician of the opposite sex.

Probably this is true. We have good authority for believing that Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do. Idleness always means familiarity between the sexes, and familiarity brings a lowering of barriers and a relaxation of restraints. Feminine modesty is a funny thing anyway. It may be said paradoxically that it is one of the great facts of life that do not exist. Most women have that kind of modesty that loves to be outraged. It is like the tail of the Irishman's coat that begs to be trodden on.

Curiously enough, even the most rigid modesty will give way before unusual circumstances, such as an ocean voyage or a foreign clime. The white woman is not embarrassed by the unblushing displays of Oriental life—at least for not more than a day. She likes them. She will take her stand in the line of men and women awaiting their turn in the ship's bath and she will be just as proud of the cut of her bathrobe as in the style of her hat. And yet that same woman would believe herself to be seriously embarrassed by an untimely encounter with a male guest in the corridor of her own home.

American and English women in France will do things without the slightest confusion that they would be incapable of in their own countries. In point of fact feminine modesty seems to be three-fifths convention, one-fifth provocation and one-fifth humbug.

Origin of the Menu. The menu, so indispensable to the ordering of a satisfactory dinner today, had its origin in the twelfth century, the first person to use it being Prince Henry of Brunswick. At a large banquet he was seen to consult from time to time a long paper at his side, apparently attached to the under side of the table cloth and rolled back. One inquisitive guest at length made bold to inquire what study he might be engaged in at that apparently unseasonable time, and Prince Henry explained that it was a paper on which he had noted down the details of his dinner and that he wanted to be sure that all his instructions had been carried out.

The simplicity of the idea struck the fancy of the guests and from that time the menus became the fashion. In its primitive form it was of such dimensions as to resemble a wall map and was given a position at each end of the table, the guests at the banquet being permitted to consult it.—Harper's Weekly.

GOODS THAT DON'T STAND COMPARISON

In anticipation of a long trip across the continent, this wise couple consulted the local dealer in luggage—trunks and umbrellas and as the time approaches for their departure they are satisfied with their new possessions. Friends come to bid farewell and their conversation touches upon the merits of home-buying and mail order houses. The visiting friends admire the home-purchased products and compare them with a guilty feeling of their own folly when they tried the catalogue method and suffered disappointment.

Later, after many weeks, the touring couple return with their home-purchased trunk and bags in almost the same excellent condition as when they left.

MORAL:—Never trust your wardrobe to any but the best receptacles: the home dealer will assure you protection.

WILLIE HOPPE HELD UP AS MODEL AMERICAN BY WASHINGTON PASTOR

William F. Hoppe, champion billiardist of the world, had a new experience recently when he was called to the pulpit of the First Methodist church by Rev. Dr. Francis Burgette Short and introduced to the congregation. Doctor Short was speaking on "The Rejected Man of American Manhood" and was discussing what wants to be done with the millions of men who have been rejected by the army because they are physically unfit. He pointed to Mr. Hoppe as an example of clean living. He said, in part: "You all know what an ardent booster I am of clean sport," said Doctor Short. "Mr. Hoppe exemplifies clean sport. Years ago when he was a boy he set his eyes on the world's billiard championship. In order to attain his end he knew that he would have to hold himself under physical subjection. He is a total abstainer from strong drink and other forms of physical excesses and has achieved a record in his chosen line of sports never before touched by any individual. His success is largely due to his clean living." The photo shows Hoppe and his partner, R. B. Patterson making a few difficult shots for the edification of the jacksies at Mare Island Cal.

DOING AWAY WITH THE INDUSTRIAL SCRAP HEAP

Railroads and Manufacturers Are Learning to Eliminate Waste, Including Drainage of Man Power.

Confronted by the necessity of utilizing every possible traffic facility for war material, the railroads are going to the scrap heap for additional equipment. They are patching up discarded locomotives and engines 25 years old have been rebuilt and made "better than when they were new."

No doubt the railroad scrap heap is the largest of all American scrap heaps and by that token the one from which most material can be salvaged.
But the conditions of railroad waste and extravagance in the name of efficiency equally characterize all American industry and the new railroad policy of reclamation is important as an example and a precedent.
What the garbage pile is as an index of household thriftlessness, the scrap heap is as a monument to wasteful methods of manufacture. But the greatest of all wastes progressive manufacturers now realize lies in the careless manipulation of man power—

DIDN'T APPEAL TO SENATOR

Western Statesman Had Wrong Impression as to Recipient of Proposed Wedding Present

Soon after the convening of a new session of congress the announcement was made of the approaching marriage of Anson G. McCook, who was then secretary of the senate. A subscription was immediately started among the senators for the purchase of a wedding present. Two or three prominent senators volunteered to collect the money. Senator X, one of the richest men in the senate at that time, was one of these.

Seeing a new western senator who had not yet been approached on the subject, Senator X went to him and said:

"Senator Slocum, I want you to give me $25."

"What for?" demanded the new member.

"For McCook's wedding present," explained Senator X.
"I'll see you about it tomorrow," answered Slocum, with a scowl.
"All right," said Senator X, as he walked away but don't forget it."

Sensor Slocum watched him until he was out of hearing, and then, turning to his colleague remarked, with warmth:

"Well, I've heard of cheeky things in my life, but that man beats all!"
What do you think? He just asked me to give him $25 to buy a wedding present for his cook!"

Novel Way of Advertising.
The advertising manager of a leading French business firm has evolved an ingenious plan for evading the prohibitive taxes imposed by the law of June 12, 1912 on unsightly billboards disfiguring the countryside. For the long ugly advertisement boards flanking the railway, which formerly were a blot on the garden city of Paris and its suburbs, a Juvet firm has now substituted a large bed of flowers in a field adjoining the Orleans line, the design representing a yellow cow, which is the trademark of the firm.
By it not only circumvents the law,
but also provides a more effective advertisement than that offered by the former billboards. The plan has proved so satisfactory that it is expected that railways in the neighborhood of large French towns will be beautified by similar floral parterres, designed to advertise articles of commerce.

Truly Horrible.

"Oh, Henry, she said when she has thrown off her wraps and hung herself into a chair, "I'm so mortified."

"What's the matter, dear?"

"I met Mrs. Biggie at the reception, this afternoon, and she seemed so nice that I stood there before the crowd for half an hour and talked to her. When we were leaving her chauffeur drove up in an old four cylinder car and after she had taken her seat in it she called out right before everybody that she would expect me to call on her soon."

WOUNDED AUSTRALIANS BEING TREATED ON THE ROAD TO THE BATTLE FRONT IN FLANDERS

DISASTROUS DELAY IS TAKING PLACE IN BUILDING OF CARS

Is the Charge Made by Organ of the Iron and Steel Industries.

BLAME LAID ON WILLIAMS

Purchasing Head of the Railroad Administration, Who is Pursuing the Same Course Denman Did When Head of the Shipbuilding Board.

"What at Washington," asks the Cleveland Daily Iron Trade and Metal Market Report, "is holding up and thus delaying the placing of the vast freight car orders which ought to have been in the hands of builders weeks ago? The designs and specifications for the 100,000 cars have been completed and approved by the railroad engineers, by the car builders and by the government itself. What then is delaying the award of the contracts and the building of the cars?"

"Every coal mine owner, every steel mill manager, every blast furnace operator, every coke oven operator knows the shortage of freight cars has been and now is the one thing delaying execution of projects vital to successful and timely prosecution of the war. Yet Washington delays, fiddles and fusses over the awarding of cars absolutely necessary to move the freight."

John Skelton Williams, purchasing head of the government railroad administration, is blocking the purchase of these cars. The same course of systematic delay pursued by Denman, once head of the shipping board, in holding up the shipbuilding program to the disgrace of the nation, seems to be animating the car purchasing committee at Washington.

"Williams on March 21 sent out telegrams to car builders, summoning them to the national capital on March 26 prepared to obtain orders on these cars. But the March 26 meeting was adjourned subject to call later. Again the car builders were called to Washington for April 3. Again a postponement, this time to April 15. Yet another postponement to April 17. And the end of the story of postponements, fiddling and delays is not yet."

"More than three valuable weeks thus have been frittered away. All this lost time is most valuable and can never be recovered. It was not in the case of the Denman shipbuilding matter, for even today the shipbuilders have not been able to catch up with the original schedule."

"Five months in any event will be required from the time the orders are placed until the first cars can be delivered. These five months must be devoted to production of new dies for forming plates and other new equipment which are absolutely necessary for the building of the new specification cars. For this time will be needed to get ready to manufacture the specialties for these cars."

"But why the delay? In the trade it is common knowledge that Williams and his committee is dicker, fiddling and maneuvering to get a slightly lower price on these cars. Price is just as important to the builders as to the government committee. But in contradistinction with the attitude of the Washington committee, the car builders feel that the paramount thing is to get cars delivered, and they feel the orders should be let go at once, the building of cars started and then the question of price can be threshed out as let now deliveries can begin by late December or early October, just when the coal movement for the winter will begin to make extraordinary demands upon the railroads. It is most essential for the good of the country, if it is to avoid the absolutely intolerable congestion of coal and other cars as was suffered last winter, that these car orders be placed without further delay."

June Court Jurors.

Judge Van Swearingen handed down an order directing the jury commissioners to empanel and the sheriff to summon a grand jury and petit jury for three weeks to serve at the June session of criminal court. The order calls for 100 jurors to be summoned for each week of the session.

HOW GERMAN SOLDIERS ARE TRAINED IN THE GRENADE THROWING

Taught to Throw From All Positions; Practice and Instruction Continuous Without Interruption.

The account which a recently captured German soldier gives of the training the Kaiser's troops receive for the present campaign in Flanders and Picardy, recalls the very interesting explanations of the use of hand grenades, as given by Lieutenant Roeder during his address in the high school auditorium on Friday night. The story of the captured German was thus related:

"We are taught to throw at a target at some distance while standing, lying, sheltered in a trench or while running. At first empty grenades are used, then half charged ones and finally ones fully charged. We also have to learn to throw these grenades used by the enemy in case they should be found in any trenches. Then we are taught to run into all kinds of obstacles; to construct, leap over and destroy them. We also have to be able to handle guns and to be able to manipulate bombs, machine guns and infantry cannons. This all takes place in the morning. In the afternoon we are taught the theory of the exercises practiced in the morning, while in the evening we learn to take the enemy's position and how to outflank them."

"Our men are all fighters in these attacking units, and we do not even construct our own trenches, as this part of the work is taken care of by another company, but in our battalion it was done by Belgian men and women."

"There is no limit to the time of instruction which continues until every one has perfected the art of throwing. Those who are not fitted for the work are immediately sent back to their original units, as the work is very hard, even though extra rations are received."

"When ready to make an attack we are taken in auto trucks to the trench from which we are to start. The artillery opens fire and we leave in Indian file. Each squad is made up of fifteen men. The captain is in the center with a fighter on each side, who carries six grenades, twelve half-grenades and two smoking grenades and ride with six cartridges. Each squad has its own artillery, operated by five men.
